OFFICIALS LAY PLANS FOR CITY WPA PROGRAM

First Steps Taken To Man Work Made Possible by Sewer Levy

CONFERENCE IS HELD

Will Push Projects Likely To Require Least Amount of Time To Get Started

Preliminary plans were under way today [illegible] WPA program in operation [illegible] was made possible by the passage [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] Main [illegible] Smith [illegible] WPA [illegible] proposed and [illegible] week [illegible] Engineer [illegible] detailed plans for [illegible] the end of this week [illegible] WPA officials for approval. While these [illegible] was no defi[illegible] said [illegible] it could be worked [illegible] would be [illegible]

In [illegible] Smith [illegible] would [illegible] cases [illegible] of the [illegible]

In Project List

[illegible] South Prospect [illegible] replacement of stone and sand [illegible] at the sewage treatment plant [illegible] sewer on East Church and [illegible] were among the projects [illegible] considered as [illegible] program [illegible] The sewage plant [illegible] East End sewer were considered of [illegible] importance [illegible] would be derived from them.

The work at the sewage plant would be a continuation of a project now in the process of completion. Officials estimate 100 men would be given work for five months. The city would be required to purchase 3500 tons of stone and a quantity of sand.

The East End sewer would relieve a flood condition that develops around Grand avenue with each hard rain because of insufficient drainage facilities. This is estimated to provide work for 10 [illegible] for three months.

As in [illegible] other proposed projects, the cost of the city's share of these improvements is not known [illegible] detailed specifications have not been worked [illegible] [illegible] however, the funds will come from the $42,000 [illegible] each year [illegible] period.

Street Plans Drawn

Plans for the South Prospect [illegible] improvement already have been drawn in the city engineer's office. The project calls for widening the [illegible] five feet on each side from Church [illegible] Columbia [illegible] and [illegible] feet on each side from [illegible] Hill street. The [illegible] cost of this project [illegible] estimated at $12,000 [illegible] city contributing $4,190 [illegible] for new paving materials.

Another project that has been under way for some time and which officials propose to continue under a new project is the macadamizing of [illegible] streets and alleys. The project will [illegible] in which the [illegible] the sewage disposal plant [illegible] taken from the river bed will be used for paving purposes. It is proposed to [illegible] all unpaved streets and [illegible] portion [illegible] paved [illegible] in the city as a base [illegible] planning the project.

A number of other proposed projects were discussed [illegible] meeting of officials Saturday night. Among them were the following: a general repair program at the sewage plant that would give work to 20 men for three months, a general [illegible] program [illegible] improvement of the lake at McKinley park, improvement [illegible] park drive, construction of a [illegible] and sanitary sewer from Chicago street to Oakland heights, improvement of Ququa ditch from Reed avenue south, of improving drainage in the East Side.

WOMAN WHO FLEW SEA BUYS CLOTHES

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 — Mrs. Beryl Markham set out today to replenish a wardrobe that consists of the sleeveless silk shirt and the gray slacks she wore while flying across the Atlantic ocean.

Labor day put a crimp in the blond English woman's shopping plans and so she went on a motor trip in Westchester and Putnam counties and attended a dinner party attired in the same sports outfit she has worn since Friday.

Beyond the shopping trip, her plans today were indefinite. Preparations were being made for a civic welcome in the customary Manhattan manner, but the flier's representatives said they hoped this would not be held until Thursday.

6,224 Enrolled Today At Opening of Schools

242 Less Than Figure for First Day Last Year, Rapid Increase Expected

[illegible] days were left [illegible] more than [illegible] boys and girls who [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] public and parochial schools.

The [illegible] of 6,224 was 242 under the [illegible] day's [illegible] but school officials [illegible] there was every [illegible] by the end of the week [illegible] officials' figures.

Supt. C. A. Rodi[illegible] of the public schools said [illegible] the first day figure was lower due largely to the fact that schools opened on a day following a holiday. Several principals reported [illegible] they knew of [illegible] a number of children who were not in school today.

The enrollment figure at noon Wednesday is expected to show a large increase.

County Figure Unknown

Enrollment in the Marion county schools, anticipated to be about 3,000, will not be known at the office of Supt. D. T. Mi[illegible] until the last of the week when each of the schools in the county has made a report.

Total enrollment in the city public schools at noon today was 5,844 compared with [illegible] the opening day last year, and at the St. Mary Parochial school [illegible] grade [illegible] [illegible] 20 less than on the opening day a year ago. The St. Mary enrollment will increase approximately 18 [illegible] Monday when the high school classes open.

Enrollment in the [illegible] grades of the public schools dropped from [illegible] to [illegible] this morning and at the St. Mary school the number was [illegible] the same as last year.

The largest increase in public school enrollment was reported at Harding High school, where 882 boys and girls presented themselves for classes this morning. Last year on the first day the number was 841. Whether or not the [illegible] will be sent [illegible] this year cannot be ascertained this early, officials said, pointing out that when the final enrollment was made last year there were approximately [illegible] pupils in the high school.

Grades Out at Noon

Pupils in the elementary and junior high schools were dismissed at noon today but at the high school a full day's schedule was in effect. All pupils will be expected to be present at the regular opening hour Wednesday morning to begin the 1936-37 school year, Superintendent Hudson said.

Enrollments at noon today in the various schools follow: Forest Lawn, 16; George Washington, 225; Glenwood, 433; Greenwood, 215; Mark, 315; North Main, 189; Oak, 247; Oakland, 469; Olney, 282; Pearl, 438; Silver, 327; Vernon Junior, 361; Central Junior, 741; Thomas A. Edison Junior, 554; Harding High school, 882.

PEACE AND LABOR UNITY GIST OF HOLIDAY TALKS

Hull Warns World Present Warlike Tendencies Can Only Lead to New Conflict.

By The Associated Press

Pleas for world peace and unity among American labor unions lay before the nation today, as it pondered the speechmaking that marked Labor day.

Some excerpts from addresses by well known persons follow:

War and Peace

Secretary of State Cordell Hull: "We find today a lamentable absence of appreciation by many responsible and influential statesmen that these present warlike tendencies can only lead to a world holocaust."

Gov. Alf M. Landon: "We must have the strong will for peace. We must be ready to sacrifice short-run profits."

The Schism in the A. F. of L.

Gov. Landon: "It is to be hoped that organized labor may continue its part in the struggle for higher living standards, and to be really effective it must be united."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor: "The enemies of labor will be the only beneficiaries of division, discord and bitterness within the family of organized labor."

Frank Morrison, A. F. of L. secretary, said John L. Lewis, leader of 10 "rebellious" unions, suspended from the A. F. of L., will need "more than the [illegible] takes the rabbit out of the [illegible] to organize the [illegible]

DUTCH CROWN PRINCESS TO WED GERMAN PRINCE

Announcement Recalls Linking Her Name to That of King Edward's

Juliana [illegible]

The date of the wedding was not announced.

Juliana, who is [illegible] years old, [illegible] years older than the [illegible] who is to be her [illegible] has been the object [illegible] for Dutch [illegible]

They linked her name in [illegible] — for a time with that of King Edward VIII of England [illegible] the British [illegible]

Meet and Fall in Love

But Prince Bernhard and Princess Juliana met and fell in love during the winter Olympics [illegible] this year in Garmisch-Partenkirchen [illegible] to Switzerland with Queen Wilhelmina [illegible] Juliana saw the German nobleman again. He proposed. She accepted.

Some court sources believed the wedding would be in the spring.

It was learned today Prince Bernhard had been living in The Hague since the first of the month when he was transferred here by the German dye trust which employs him.

Juliana follows the example of her mother in marrying a German prince. Her father was Prince Hendrik of Mecklenburg, now dead.

Prince Bernhard's father died in 1934. His mother is a member of the Von Cramm family, related to the German tennis champion.

The Netherlands public, which has heard the name of its only royal princess linked speculatively with numerous other European royal eligibles, in addition to Edward, was surprised by the announcement.

Affair Not Known

It was not generally known in The Netherlands that Juliana and Bernhard were ever acquainted.

Tall, round-faced and plump, Juliana is extremely popular everywhere in Holland and particularly in the young court set.

She was brought up in "real" serious fashion under the watchful eye of her mother, who now nearing 56 has ruled The Netherlands for 48 years.

She is regarded as more democratic than Wilhelmina.

Bernhard's full name is Bernhard Leopold Frederik Eberhard Jules Kurt Charles Godfrey Peter. The princess is Juliana Louise Emma Marie Wilhelmina.

The prince, it is believed, will assume the title of Prince of The Netherlands after he is wed.

Today's court communique came on the heels of reports, which, however, were officially denied, that Queen Wilhelmina was planning to abdicate after her daughter married.

Mother, Daughter Have Reunion As Hospital Patients

A bit of drama was staged Saturday at the Marion City hospital when Mrs. Homer Unroe of Prospect, in a wheel chair, visited her 8-year-old daughter Vivian, also a patient.

Mrs. Unroe underwent a major operation on Thursday, Aug. 27, at the hospital and her condition was so critical that when her daughter was brought in the following Saturday night suffering from a broken leg, it was thought best for the mother's health that she not be told.

No publicity was given the accident in which the child was hurt, and reports of the child's presence in the hospital were kept from her until last Saturday, the day before Mrs. Unroe was removed to the home in Prospect. She was told of her daughter's presence, assured of the child's response to treatment and wheeled to her daughter's room. They chatted for a while and then parted, to meet again in a week or two at the home.

ASHLAND, O., Sept. 8. — The [illegible] of a [illegible] ended [illegible] today of a 2[illegible] pilot and his 20-year-old passenger [illegible] both [illegible] tragedy.

The dead were George Rietel [illegible] at Ohio State university, and John Andrews, 17, a student at Ashland High school.

The two were flying over Ashland airport [illegible] banked the plane at 100 feet apparently intending to make a quick landing but it failed to pull out and crashed into the earth, turned over and burst into flames.

The youthful occupants were pinned underneath.

The pilot and his passenger trapped by the flames were unable to escape. No one could reach them because of the intense heat.

The bodies were not removed until Ashland firemen had put out the fire.

The charred body of the college student was taken out of the plane wreckage by his father, Dr. George Rietel, who is president of Ashland Airport, Inc.

Young Andrews was the son of Rev. and Mrs. H. I. Andrews.

Young Rietel, one of the first youths here to take up flying, had been in the air only a few minutes when the accident occurred.

Flying almost daily, the youth [illegible] did not take to the air until twilight this evening. Holder of a private license, he had nearly [illegible] hours in the air to his credit.

MYSTERY DEATH AT LIMA INVESTIGATED

Cigar Store Clerk Found in Burning Automobile, Was Struck on Head.

By The Associated Press

LIMA, O., Sept. 8. — Coroner Harry Lewis said he would attempt to determine the cause of the mystery death of Fred Counts, 35-year-old cigar store clerk, found in a burning automobile Sunday.

The coroner has withheld his verdict. He said Counts had been struck on the head and that he would attempt to determine whether the blow or suffocation caused death.

Meanwhile, deputies under Sheriff Ralph Marshall, who asserted "we are working on a murder case," renewed their efforts to locate Noble C. Magness, 30-year-old clothing store collector.

Magness last was seen in Delphos late Saturday night and had about $300, the sheriff said.

It was in the collector's automobile that Counts' body was found near Delphos. The two were friends.

Sheriff Marshall said there was a possibility that the slayers had kidnaped or killed the collector, who was reported missing by relatives prior to the discovery of Counts' body.

Magness' automobile had struck a tree, but the sheriff said he was confident that the impact did not cause an explosion resulting in the fire. He said only one fender was dented slightly and that three gallons of gasoline remained in the tank.

The Miami and Erie canal near Delphos was dragged unsuccessfully by the sheriff's deputies investigating the possibility that Magness might have been slain and his body thrown into the water.

Mishaps of All Sorts Take Lives of 319 Persons in Entire Country

Twelve persons were injured in traffic mishaps in Marion [illegible] the week-end and Labor day, [illegible] of a toll of accidents that took 319 lives in the nation [illegible] 17 in Ohio.

Of the 319 dead in the nation, 271 lost their lives in traffic accidents, The Associated Press reported.

Four Cashocton residents were hurt when their automobile swerved by the driver to avoid hitting a stray dog, overturned near Big Island last night. They are Fred D. Jacobs, Miss Eva McKee, Edgar Dudgeon and T. C. Bryan.

Russell Harrold of Marion and Edward Dutt of Waldo were injured when their car struck another and overturned east of Marion Saturday midnight. A Tiffin man and a Sidney woman were injured in a three-car collision east of Galion Saturday night. At Ashley, four Dayton residents were hurt in a collision of automobiles.

Several automobiles were damaged in minor collisions in the city.

Avoids Hitting Dog, Car Overturns

Fred D. Jacobs, 44, of Coshocton, and three companions suffered injuries when the automobile in which they were riding overturned west of Marion last night as Jacobs swerved his car to avoid striking a dog as it ran across Harding Highway.

Jacobs told a highway patrolman he lost control of the car when it slid in loose stone along the berm after he had turned to avoid hitting a dog.

The injured are Jacobs, who suffered minor cuts and bruises; Miss Eva McKee, 28, who suffered a concussion and bruises; Edgar Dudgeon, 35, who was bruised and suffered a possible fracture of the left foot, and T. C. Bryan, 41, who suffered face lacerations.

While Clark Metz, ambulance driver for the Boyd Funeral home, tried to get the injured persons to his ambulance, a car driven by Jack Robinson of Meeker ran into the rear of the ambulance, Marion sub-station of the highway patrolman Karl Bushong of the patrol reported. The back end of the ambulance was bent in, but Metz was able to use it to bring the injured persons to the City hospital. They were released from the hospital shortly afterward.

Jacobs and his companions had been at the Leafy Oak coon dog trials near Kenton and were returning to Coshocton where the accident occurred. Jacobs had a dog in his car that had taken part in events at the trials. He explained that as a dog lover he had made an unusual effort to avoid hitting the stray dog that ran in the path of his car.

The accident occurred just east of Big Island on the Harding Highway last night at 7:35.

Auto Hits Parked Car, Overturns

Russell Harrold of 196 Windsor street and Edward Dutt of near Waldo suffered minor injuries when the automobile in which they were riding struck another car and overturned four miles east of Marion on the Mt. Gilead road Saturday midnight.

The car hit the parked automobile of C. B. Austin of Marion R. F. D. No. 5. Sheriff Fred F. Miller, who investigated the accident, reported. Austin, he said, had stopped his car to make repairs when his automobile lights went out.

Dutt was given treatment for face and head cuts at the City hospital and was released yesterday.

he one in yesterday's first game going eight apiece. Extra base hits were much less prominent than in Sunday's game Kuhne leading the field with a triple. Marion held the lead all the way having scored four runs before their rivals put a run across in the fourth.

The Diggers opened fast in the second game scoring 10 runs in the first four innings as against a lone run for North Lewisburg. The latter team drove in three runs in the fifth and two in the seventh to conclude their scoring for the day. Marion meanwhile had run its score up to 12 runs on 12 hits. The invaders drove out 14 hits but were held to six runs.

Stolen bases were prominent eight in all being made. Edgington got a triple for North Lewisburg while Marshall did the same for Marion. Two-base hits were driven out by McAninch Furrow Bushong Timeon and Cotrell.

Marion pitchers racked up 13 strikeouts in the second game Darrell getting seven and Fetter six while Millice got three for North Lewisburg.

Lead Disease

Man was doomed to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow. He has suffered various ailments because of his work. Modern man has had to face industrial hazards. I am glad to say that humane laws have been enacted and in consequence many of the industrial diseases no longer trouble us.

Lead poisoning or painter's colic was once a common and serious disease. It is a preventable condition and in these days is only rarely encountered.

Lead enters the body in several ways. It may be by the digestive tract carried there by contaminated food or water. It may be absorbed through the skin. It may be breathed in being taken up by the lining of the mouth and nose. Unless proper precautions are taken lead dust is inhaled damaging the lungs kidneys liver and intestines.

However it reaches the victim the lead accumulates within the body and eventually causes poisoning. The symptoms may be slow to appear but in the course of time they are observed.

Any worker who is careless in the handling of lead or lead products may be affected. Lead pipes lead cooking utensils or chemicals improperly used may cause lead poisoning. This danger has disappeared but it used to be that some face powders and hair dyes contained excessive amounts of lead and were capable of causing this ailment.

Lead poisoning is indicated by colic constipation palsy and anemia. The gums are discolored and the teeth are sensitive. In complicated cases there are rheumatic pains and unpleasant mental changes.

Frequently the muscles of the forearm become paralyzed. This produces a characteristic sign of lead poisoning called wrist drop.

The steady decline in the number of cases of lead poisoning within the past decade is gratifying. It is an index of the careful study and attention that have been given the industrial hazards. Hoods ventilating fans masks glasses and gloves are a few of the means of protection against the disease now available for the lead worker.

I cannot overstate the importance of personal hygiene and cleanliness in the prevention of lead poisoning. Change your clothes when you have finished your work. Wash the hands carefully and remove all paint stains.

FIGURES REVEAL GROWTH OF STATE GOVERNMENT

Auditor Issued 1 698 281 Checks Last Year as Compared With 14 688 During 1900

By International News Service

COLUMBUS O State Auditor Joseph T Tracy's annual report for 1935 recently made public reveals by the example of one department alone how great has been the increase in the responsibilities of state government in recent years.

The increase in his duties is made apparent the auditor reported by a comparison of the number of checks issued from his office in 1900 and the number of checks issued in 1935.

In 1900 the volume of business transacted required the issuance of only 14,688 checks. Last year the number came to 1 698 281.

Fifteen years before in 1920 the number was 246 1 1. Last year's figure was seven times that amount.

Demand More Service

"This indicates clearly" Tracy said "that the people are demanding more and more public service reaching into new fields and consequently a large increase in the cost of government follows.

The conduct of state government presents exactly the same problem as that presented by any enterprise doing a business of $100 000 000 a year with over 20 000 salaried employes plus a large number of day laborers on the highways.

The general revenue available for the year he explained was $97 797 061 17. Warrants were issued for $81 738 604 leaving a balance subject to draft at the first of 1936 of $15 972 844 28.

During 1935 the legislature created three new divisions of government all of which have increased tremendously the volume of work in Tracy's office the division of aid for the aged the liquor control department and the sales tax division.

86 000 Checks a Month

Old age pension administration required the auditor to issue monthly checks to 86 000 pensioners representing a single monthly expenditure of $1 300 000. The death list was approximately 900 a month with an equal number becoming eligible in that period of time.

The auditor also had to oversee the conduct of 178 liquor stores and agencies in their accounting for money derived from liquor sales. This sum totalled more than $32 000 000 and in addition to that amount about $4 000 000 was realized from permits to hotels restaurants and similar establishments.

In the sales tax division traveling auditors and a staff of bookkeepers watched over collections of the $48 000 000 that must be accounted for to the state treasury annually from the sale of stamps by county treasurers banks and other designated agencies.

INCIDENT AT SHILOH

In the fighting on Easter Sunday 1862 at the battle of Shiloh John Dymond said to be the smallest man in the 49th Ohio Volunteer infantry was struck by a bullet which passed through his trousers pocket and while not even grazing the skin hit his pocket knife split it in two equal parts and carried one of the parts away with it. The soldier exhibited the remainder of his knife and told his companions that he felt that the accident to his knife was a distinct loss.

In the same fight Gen W H Gibson then colonel of the regiment received a bayonet wound. The next morning he met Dymond who exhibited his pierced pocket and knife and said "I am all right but I have only half a knife the darned bullet took the other half from me."

"Well well" said the colonel "I think this great and mighty government should get you another. It has no right to let a Union soldier be despoiled of his jack knife especially to have it stolen in such a sneaking way."

MOTORISTS OF OHIO MUST GET LICENSES

Vehicle Bureau Prepares Machine for Law Going Into Effect Oct 1

By International News Service

COLUMBUS O—Employes in the state motor vehicle bureau are working to prepare the machinery which on Oct 1 will make Ohio the [illegible] state requiring all motorists to be licensed.

More than 2 000 000 driving permits must be issued under the new drivers license law passed by the present legislature as a means of combatting the mounting traffic toll.

The new licenses are to be distributed through the regular channels for the sale of automobile license plates—deputy registrars auto clubs and some American Legion posts. They will be valid from Oct 1 to Sept 30 1937.

The state highway patrol will examine the applicants and enforce the law although the law specifies that state officials may call on local authorities for aid in carrying out its provisions.

Under the law all persons with one year or more of driving experience and without physical defects are entitled to receive their licenses on application and payment of a 25-cent charge plus a 15-cent issuing fee.

All applicants who are less than 18 years of age who are without at least one year of experience or who have physical defects or other handicaps which might affect their operation of motor vehicles will be required to take the examination.

OHIO INVENTOR HAS 2 PATENTS PENDING

Miners Check Holder and Veneer Flower Pot Included

By United Press

NEW PHILADELPHIA O — Residents here are boasting of the inventive genius of Ralph Collins an inventor and gardner who has two patents pending and 21 others under way.

One of Collins inventions is a miners check holder to retain the metal discs given miners during their day's work which at present they have to carry in their pockets. The contrivance consists of a medal holder which can be attached either to the belt or suspenders without snagging buttons. The checks are removed easily by a steel spring.

The other invention is a flower pot with metal corners and veneer boards and the side and bottom. Roots begin to penetrate the sides through the veneer boards in three to 10 days according to Collins. In two or three months the boards are obliterated in the ground where the pot is set. In six months the metal parts are supposed to be rusted out and the plant has had the benefit of the contrivance all the while.

NEW SCHOOL SETUP OBJECT OF SURVEY

Report on Redistricting of State Will Be Available Next January

By International News Service

COLUMBUS O—A study now in progress throughout Ohio will provide by next January material for reports on school redistricting and school organization in each county State Education Director E L Bowsher indicated here recently.

The state wide study is being sponsored by the U S department of education through the state education department. Its progress was reported recently in a Washington conference of Bowsher T C Holy of Ohio State university and those directing similar studies in nine other states.

In discussing the conference Bowsher said

It was evident from the discussion in Washington that Ohio's legislature on the problem of school organization is far in advance of the other nine states. In fact one of the U S department of education officials made the statement from the point of school districting legislation Ohio is 10 years ahead of the other states.

Bowsher credited Ohio's excellent progress in this field to the co-operation which county superintendents have given.

Other states conducting similar studies are Arizona Arkansas California Illinois Kentucky North Carolina Oklahoma Pennsylvania and Tennessee.

OHIO TENT DWELLER WILL BUILD HOME

City council will meet at 7 30 o'clock tonight to consider steps to return furloughed policemen and firemen to their posts as the result of passage of [illegible] levy of a one and one-half mill levy to provide funds for salaries for a two year period

Council will hear a report by Solicitor Ralph F Carhart regarding the legality of returning the men to work immediately a question that was raised Saturday Carhart [illegible] in his opinion there would be no legal complications that would prevent the return of the men at once

The only question involved he said would be means of raising money for their salaries from now until Jan 1 The levy as voted last Friday calls for a special tax for the years 1937 and 1938 The state law Carhart said prohibits the city from borrowing an anticipated tax income before the first of the year in which the tax is to be collected

FOR DIGESTION'S SAKE... SMOKE CAMELS

AT HARVEY'S famous restaurant in Washington D C, you enjoy the same dishes that delighted Mark Twain Emerson, Booth, Taft, and other famous men What cigarette is preferred here? Most emphatically, Camels Julius Lulley host at Harvey's says Our diners agree on Camels Those who prefer quality food appreciate Camel's costlier tobaccos

A CASHIER has to be alert—accurate—pleasant Miss T Lander, shown at the ticket window of a New York movie says "Camels help my digestion—cheer me up They have a marvelous taste"

LAWSON LITTLE won both British and American Amateur Titles for two years in a row Camels set me right, he says And at mealtimes, Camels make food taste better—help my digestion—give me a cheery lift.

"I'M FOR CAMELS," says Al Mingalone, Paramount News newsreel cameraman. "My experience proves that Camels are a big aid to digestion"

Camels add zest to meals—aid digestion—increase alkalinity

RUSH and mental strain impede digestion by slowing down the flow of the digestive fluids so necessary to proper, smooth digestion. Smoking Camels assists digestion by increasing the flow of the alkaline digestive fluids in a pleasant and natural way

It is thus that Science explains the sense of well being that you experience after you dine and smoke Camels Make Camel your cigarette They set you right

Resettlement Wanes

Many of Rexford G. Tugwell's fairest dreams apparently never are going to be realized.

Rigid curtailment of the resettlement program, slashing of new projects planned, scaling down of rehabilitation loans and reductions in personnel were disclosed by officials of the resettlement administration. That is how one observer summarized executive orders smashing Tugwellian dreams on grounds that the money is needed for drouth relief.

In cash terms these orders mean that about $70,000,000 originally earmarked for experiments with subsistence homesteads and the like will be spent in the drouth area. About 51 projects remain half finished. A little more work will be done on those in which the largest sums have been sunk. But the last nut and bolt will not have been driven home when new tenants take over the experimental areas. As for the projects which presumably never will be completed—they invoke the memory of Passamaquoddy bay, monument to the profligacy of the new deal.

Prof. Tugwell, like most new dealers, must have been moved by visions as he planned to remake America. Unfortunately for him, taxpayers are a practical breed of the species. They are not likely to shed many tears of sympathy over the emasculation of the resettlement program.

Enough of Ness.

If Safety Director Eliot Ness of Cleveland continues to wield his reform broom over the police force with such vigor, the lakeside city will be headed for an Alice in Wonderland or Tom Johnson era of unbelievable probity in municipal law administration.

Several times within recent months he has shot a large charge of jitters into certain members of the police force who just didn't know why such things should happen. He has helped at least two captains to speed their departure from the payroll. Just the other week he started a frontal attack on wrongdoing in Cleveland by creating a new bureau of safety education and crime prevention.

Last Tuesday, charging police collusion in a particular precinct, Mr. Ness ordered the greatest purge in the history of the department. Wholesale transfers were made and most of the key positions in the accused precinct given to men recently promoted by Director Ness after a personal investigation of their record.

Many easy going members of the police force and the few who [illegible] virtue is [illegible] and reproach may have had enough of Mr. Ness. But honest and efficient [illegible] the director points out, have no [illegible] like at nights worrying [illegible] jobs. Explaining the action, Yale athletic officials pointed out that they want to give persons who can't go to games a chance to hear them, that commercial sponsorship will clear the air lanes and avoid duplication of broadcasts—and the revenue will be appreciated. As sensible Americans they realize that drouth prevention is a non political concern of the whole nation.

A grand day, said President Roosevelt. A charming gentleman, said Gov. Landon. Reassured of the essential sanity and dignity of their leaders, Republicans and Democrats can settle down to debate the partisan issues of the campaign and reflect that politics might not be so bad after all.

Peace Proposal

When the assembly of the League of Nations meets this month and takes up proposals for modifying the covenant it will consider a suggestion submitted by Maxim Litvinoff of Russia.

Under the Litvinoff formula the council of the League would meet three days after being notified that war had been declared by a League member and decide by a three fourths vote whether sanctions should be applied. If sanctions were invoked members would be considered to be at war with the aggressor and military action would be taken by states party to mutual assistance pacts and by others which conformed to recommendations of the council. If sanctions were not applied parties to mutual assistance pacts should be free to act on their own initiative. States failing to support non military sanctions would be penalized by tariff discriminations.

Unlike most plans designed to reform the covenant, if accepted this proposal would insure swiftness of action. Members would be obligated to act promptly the moment war was declared.

Like most such proposals the formula has its weaknesses. Important is the condition binding members to military action in the event a three fourths vote invokes sanctions. Many Americans would see in this provision one more reason why the United States should not commit itself formally to playing a part in European affairs. Natural forces such as economics involve us sufficiently as it is.

Like all proposals to promote peace within or outside the League framework, the plan depends upon the willingness of the powers to act. Too many times history has shown that in times of stress solemn covenants become mere scraps of paper.

The League machinery might be overhauled to advantage. More pressing is the need for nations through mandates of the peoples to their leaders to reaffirm their faith in collective action, to show that their hearts are in the battle for peace.

Some Counties Do

Lest Ohioans lose all faith in their local governmental units, it should be recorded that 14 counties did the impossible in the first half of the year. Now it can be told because the state auditor's report has been released—that 14 of our 88 counties met their direct relief expenses during the first six months without state aid.

Those on the honor roll are Ashland, Auglaize, Darke, Fairfield, Fulton, Harrison, Henry, Holmes, Monroe, Pickaway, Ross, Shelby, Wayne and Williams. Unfortunately the report does not show how these counties performed this magic. But do good magicians ever expose their trade secrets? Hats off to the doers of the impossible. They will be rewarded by having a balance of $[illegible] available for the rest of the year.

Of course five counties finished with less than a nickel left of their state grants and the second half of the year will be the hardest. But whenever Ohio communities need inspiration, they can look at the record.

Fourth there is the roof and extension of the poultry building authorized by the President through the WPA at a cost to the federal treasury of $24,900.

Fifth federal money is already being used for maintenance purposes. Thus seven large and 127 small bridges are being painted by the WPA at a total cost of $37,000.

Sixth a zoo costing $1,595 of federal money is being constructed in the city park.

Seventh another $1,595 has been borrowed to landscape a hill in the animal pens. This is also federal money.

Eighth the young people of Pueblo are to have their dancing pavilion in the city park remodelled. It will cost $21,750 of federal money.

Ninth wading pools are being constructed by the WPA at a cost of $24,600 to the federal treasury.

Pueblo county has 1,509 persons who pay income taxes to the federal government and since the average was $60 for the state the assumption is that about $90,000 will be paid by Pueblo county residents toward repayment to the federal government for having spent $2,233,000 in this county. Approximately $2,140,000 therefore has to be paid by taxpayers in other parts of the country for improvements they will never see or enjoy.

The big question then is whether the employment given could have been otherwise furnished or whether food and shelter for the unemployed could have been otherwise provided by this county even with federal aid for much less expense. Most citizens hereabouts, glad to have the gift of the improvement, will nevertheless concede privately that relief could have been much less expensively handled.

What has happened in Pueblo may or may not be typical of what has happened in other cities and counties but the general impression I gather from other states too is that boondoggling has come to be a good deal of a joke, that is a joke on the taxpayers of the east and middle west who will have to pay the bill.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Wednesday Sept 8 1926

Police were looking for burglars who broke into five homes on Chicago avenue and Barnhart street during the night. The only loot was about $16 in money and a pair of old shoes.

John M. Bright, secretary of Marion lodge of Elks, announced that the lodge planned to erect a monument in Marion cemetery to departed members of the order. It was to be known as Elks Rest.

Forty candidates for places on the Harding High school football team were out for season's first practice under direction of Coach Paul Sprout.

Mrs. Audrey Slegley gave a dinner at her home on Windsor street complimenting Miss Ann Orians, whose marriage to Bryan Stalter was to take place soon.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday Sept 8 1916

Another series of German counterattacks were launched south of the Somme river but all were repulsed. The Russians took the offensive against the Germans and Bulgarians all along the line in Dobrudja province.

The first session of the sixty fourth congress came to an end. Declared to be the most momentous session of any congress in the generation. It was concluded when President Wilson signed the administration's $200,000,000 revenue bill.

Coach [illegible] and Capt. Harry Dowler issued a call for high school football candidates to [illegible] to make preliminary arrangements for the 1916 eleven.

Behind the News

Men and Affairs Under The Washington Spotlight

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 — The army generals who look on the Spanish civil war solely as another technical military problem are figuring the rebels will win. They have thought for some days now it would be only a question of time until the government forces collapse.

Their theory has been that victory would be won by the side able to mass the largest force of regularly trained troops, not those rawest recruits you have seen fumbling with guns for the movie news reels.

In the early days of the revolution there was some doubt about the allegiance of the enlisted personnel of the Spanish army. The officers were mostly rebel sympathizers but they could continue to rely on their men. Recent rebel victories in the north settled the question.

No reason now is seen why the rebels cannot roll up and defeat the government forces one by one in the north and pinch off Madrid in a nutcracker movement.

State department diplomatic reports confirm the impression of instability at Madrid. For fully a week authorities here have been studying the possibilities of governmental collapse.

Orderliness

President Roosevelt has been working harder lately than at any other time since those early new deal days of the banking crisis. For two days before he left on his trip he was in almost continuous conference in preparation of his semi-annual budget statement. The train ride afforded no opportunity for rest and involved longer and harder hours than the usual campaign trips in which the candidates are generally protected as much as possible from the strain. Then the night he returned he chose to make a radio speech.

Those who have followed the President's methods closely have noted that he has developed a personal system which has enabled him to protect himself increasingly from the wear and tear of office. For one thing, he has an ability to concentrate on one subject at a time and a greater ability to lay the subject aside when he is through with it. In this way his mind has become a very orderly filing cabinet.

Furthermore train riding and traveling do not tire him as much as the average person. The motto of the White House correspondents has been Join the Roosevelt Entourage and See the World, but none of the newsmen is able to stand the trip as well as he does.

Looking Ahead

More than the mere saving of old ships was involved in that decision by Great Britain, the United States and Japan on destroyers and submarines. It was really the first technical step toward accelerated naval building all around, if indeed it does not signal the start of a direct race.

Old ships are not much good for [illegible]. Offhand it may seem to be rather foolish to keep them in existence and to man them. None of the government involved chose to explain why it is not, but all the admirals know.

For one thing, if you are planning to have more and more ships in a year or two you must have an enlarged trained personnel to man them. Old ships are second best to new ones for that purpose.

Another good reason is that these ships can be used for political trading purposes. The admirals can eventually trade them in to congress for modern replacements or they could be used as excellent bartering material if there ever is another naval disarmament conference.

Shift

Foresight does not, however, explain the peculiar advantage which Japan took from the old ship deal. What happened was this:

The London naval treaty gave the United States and Britain 150,000 tons of destroyers and Japan 105,500 as of Dec. 31, 1936. It gave all three powers equal tonnage in submarines ([illegible]) as of the same date. All tonnage beyond those figures was to be scrapped.

However, Britain did not want to scrap her old destroyers and invoked the escalator clause of the treaty. She wanted to keep 10,000 tons of overage destroyers and so announced. The United States answered she would do likewise.

But Japan elected to hold on to her old submarines rather than her destroyers, keeping 15,000 tons of overage submarines and 11,000 of old destroyers. The effect was to give her superiority in submarines. In other words, she changed the treaty ratio.

What all this complicated diplomatic maneuvering merely means is that no one is going to scrap anything he has any use for.

No one believes anything will come of Russia's latest sharp warning to Japan regarding border incidents on the Manchukuo frontier. It was merely a bookkeeping note to keep the record straight as far as Russo-Japanese [illegible] are concerned.

The inside fact is the Reds are not ready for war. While Hitler is annoying them at the front door, they can not do anything about the back unless perchance Mr. Hitler some time soon finds his hands filled with his problems in western Europe, in which case Moscow might try to bear down on Tokio.

New York Notes

O. O. McIntyre's Diary of Fact, Fancy and Folks

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—Johnny Farrar is a refutation of the old saw: You cannot make a business man out of a poet. Only a few years ago he was strumming his lyre, a delicately pale blue eyed dreamer who had come down from the green hills of Vermont to the big city.

Today as one of the heads of a publishing house he is a ruddy and robust figure in one of the most highly competitive fields of merchandising. If he turns out a sonnet these days it is solely for his own amusement. His time is spent at a desk surrounded by secretaries and push buttons.

His partner is Stanley Rinehart, son of the authoress Mary Roberts Rinehart. The story goes that the capitalist Messmore Kendall, a bibliophile on the side, backed the young men in their quixotic adventuring. The old timers in the business looked upon it as a costly whim.

From the jump of the gun they succeeded. But the big splash was when they decided to publish the ponderous Anthony Adverse, which had been knocking around with no takers for some time. It proved the book sensation of the decade and made a fortune.

Much of the successful exploitation of the Ziegfeld film was due to Bernard Sobel, who literally followed the showman beyond the grave with his ballyhoo. Sobel was a former professor of English at Purdue and is likely the most erudite of the public relations gentry. WINCHELL "BLESSED EVENTS"—Mrs. Walter Winchell, wife of the New York columnist, and her two children, Walda, 6, and Walter, Jr., 2, are snapped at Chicago, en route from the Pacific coast to New York.

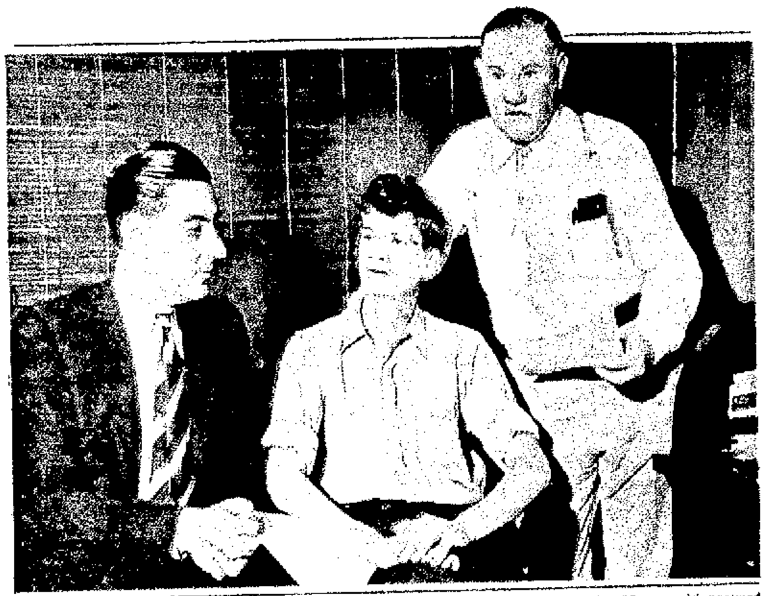
PRESIDENT MAKES POSSIBLE THEIR WEDDING—Although Cecilia Cotter, 19, could not be a June bride, as she desired, she seems happy enough as she leaves St. Henry's Roman Catholic church, Bayonne, N. J., with her bridegroom, Nelson Vallis, 22. Vallis was born in Bermuda, a British possession. He came to the United States at 14. Recently he met Miss Cotter, and fell in love. In 1933 he returned to Bermuda and, realizing he would be unable to return except under the quota, he stowed away on a steamer, thus, technically, he entered the country illegally. He was seized and would have been deported if President Roosevelt had not interceded. He now seeks naturalization papers.

GRETA AT WORK ON "CAMILLE"—Greta Garbo, making a film version of "Camille"—her first picture since her return from a visit to her home in Sweden—is shown on the set in Hollywood chatting with Robert Taylor, who plays Armand Duval, her lover. This is a rare picture of the star—for few have been taken of her on a set.

IN MEMORY—Sculptor Charles Keck is shown in New York with his model for a heroic bronze statue to be erected in Times Square in honor of the late Francis P. Duffy, chaplain who served with the "fighting 69th" in the World war.

A DANCE AND ARTILLERY—SCENES FROM SPAIN—Despite the seriousness of civil war in Spain, there still is time for a moment of dancing, to relieve the tension. At the top, a man and a woman, both soldiers of the Popular Front government forces, are pictured dancing at Sierra Peguerinos. Below, a field gun crew of the government forces is seen in action at the siege of Huesca.



FIFTEEN-YEAR-OLD SLAYER PLEADS SELF-DEFENSE—Roland Munroe, Jr., 15-year-old accused slayer of Mrs. Agnes Roffels, 65-year-old Chicago cripple, is snapped talking with State's Attorney Devine, left, and Capt. Martin McCormack, right, in Chicago police headquarters. Munroe, who police said confessed to the crime, was expected to plead self-defense.

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Mar[illegible] Sims

(Copyright, 1936 [illegible])

SYNOPSIS: Carol [illegible] has gone home from Atlanta for Christmas; she just has told her brother [illegible] of her love for Blake Thornton, her employer. And Blake is [illegible] to try [illegible] with selfish wife Irma to divorce him so he [illegible] to marry Carol. Blake [illegible] will free him since their life together has been [illegible]. But can his pretty wife Irma [illegible] to maintain her [illegible] without she [illegible] for Blake.

CHAPTER THIRTY NINE

Before The Battle

BLAKE lay in his berth and tossed impatiently cursing the hours that lay between him and his battle with Irma. He planned his attack with care and hoped fervently [illegible] enough [illegible] to carry him through. He would [illegible] with dignity. Irma would probably storm and weep [illegible] for him to keep his composure [illegible].

He tried to guess at her [illegible] action [illegible] any argument or justification she might offer and [illegible]. He had humored her [illegible] for the sake of peace [illegible] completely to her whims that her attitude was unpredictable. He had no key by which to read her now.

The train [illegible] through a night that seemed to have no end. When the train stopped at intervals the silence was thick and warm and threaded with a snore from the opposite berth. He swore beneath his breath and snapped on the light above his head. If he could not sleep he could perhaps read.

But the printed words had no meaning. He tried an article on Our Neglected Frontier and discarded it for a story in the same magazine. The story was drab and formless and wholly uninteresting and he threw it angrily aside wondering why the literary magazines were so averse to grace or color in their writing. There was drama in the upper strata as well as the lower ones—look at Carol and himself he thought—but the fact that they were articulate and fairly solvent seemed to put them beyond the pale.

He turned off the light and closed his eyes again and Carol came at once to him in the dark. He lay still and remembered her: the clear steadiness of her eyes and the humorous twist of her beautiful mouth. He remembered how her hair felt to his fingers, thick and short and crisp like a boy's.

Her body was boyish too. He wondered suddenly if she would want children and knew instinctively that she would. Her personality would not depend for its fulfillment upon maternity but her curiosity and her zest for living were to great for her voluntarily to miss that experience.

He fell asleep just at dawn and slept uneasily for three or four hours. When he woke he was at least able to say to himself: today I'll see her and perhaps know the answer. Perhaps. Or perhaps Irma would vacillate and put him off feeling a sadist's pleasure in prolonging his quivering uncertainty.

The day wore on and he found a sort of respite in the mechanics of arriving at his destination, in changing trains and eating breakfast and lunch, in watching the country take on color and warmth with the miles. The miracle of a summer that had come in the night moved him greatly and he longed to share the miracle with Carol.

His love for her had deepened his own awareness of beauty and ugliness, of joy and pain, and a sensation shared with her was a sensation doubled in intensity. He was glad now that he had taken the train instead of driving; he had not only escaped the physical strain but night had blanketed the monotony of south Georgia and northern Florida and he had waked to a bright new world.

Marston, trim and neat, bright with the conviction of returning prosperity and a bumper crop of tourists. He went to a commercial hotel because he could not bear the idea of sleeping under the same roof with Irma.

His heart was beating thickly and he knew that he was suddenly [illegible]

[illegible]

Irma's [illegible] and for the first time her [illegible] was pierced with [illegible]. Blake sounded well strange and far away. He had gone to another hotel and now he was asking for an interview as if he had never seen her. Her voice was suddenly shrill.

"Blake, what's happened?" she repeatedly frantically. "What's the matter with you?"

"I'm trying to make an opportunity to tell you but not over the telephone. Shall I come out after dinner or shan't I?"

"But—why not come to dinner? Or let me have dinner with you?"

He could not bear the emptiness of the amenities with her or run the risk of being enmeshed even for an hour in the terrible invisible strands of habit. He could not resume for a minute his conjugal relation, not while his heart and soul and body were filled with the memory of Carol. He said steadily:

"I'm sorry. This is not exactly dinner table conversation." He knew her to be entirely capable of a public scene. "We'd better talk it over in private."

Her dread and her curiosity won out. She said plaintively: "All right if you insist. I—had an engagement for the evening but I'll break it."

He smiled grimly. "Please don't do that on my account. I can wait until morning." He knew very surely that her engagement was the inevitable bridge game and that she would not rest until she heard what he had to say.

"Don't be silly." She was trying now to be coy. "Why shouldn't I break an engagement for my own husband?"

Oh God he prayed silently, don't let her start that. He said formally:

"Then I'll come about half past eight if that's convenient."

"Of course it is." She hesitated. "Come straight to my room if you like. Four twenty eight."

"Thank you. I will."

He replaced the telephone and realized as he turned away that the palms of his hands were icy.

Irma put down the receiver and stood motionless staring straight ahead. For the first time in eleven years the glass case in which she had shut herself from the needs and wishes of others was cracking. She saw Blake—dimly, it was true—as an individual and not as her husband and provider. What under heaven could he want with her, to say perhaps that his business had failed? But he remembered his telling her that there had been an improvement.

A hint of the truth crept towards her and she crushed it beneath her heel. Blake couldn't have fallen in love with another woman; he was definitely not the type for that. You didn't live with a man for eleven years without knowing whether you could trust him. Her own temperament was too cold for her to imagine a love that defied one's own wishes and scruples. If you fell in love you did it because you wanted to.

She picked up the telephone to break her bridge engagement and slowly replaced the receiver. Should she tell Mrs. Francis that her husband was in town? Mrs. Francis would be [illegible] to learn that Blake was staying elsewhere; that woman knew everything.

No, she would wait until she had heard Blake out and brought him once more under control. Then she could [illegible] about his coming and his [illegible]. "Business, you know. January is a terrible month for him. He just wanted to see me."

She took up the receiver again and called Mrs. Francis. A sick headache, nothing serious, but she thought she'd better go to bed immediately after dinner. Tomorrow [illegible] she hoped.

She turned from the telephone to her mirror and studied her face [illegible]. There was time for a [illegible] of her beauty mask [illegible].

And tomorrow Blake tells Irma the truth.

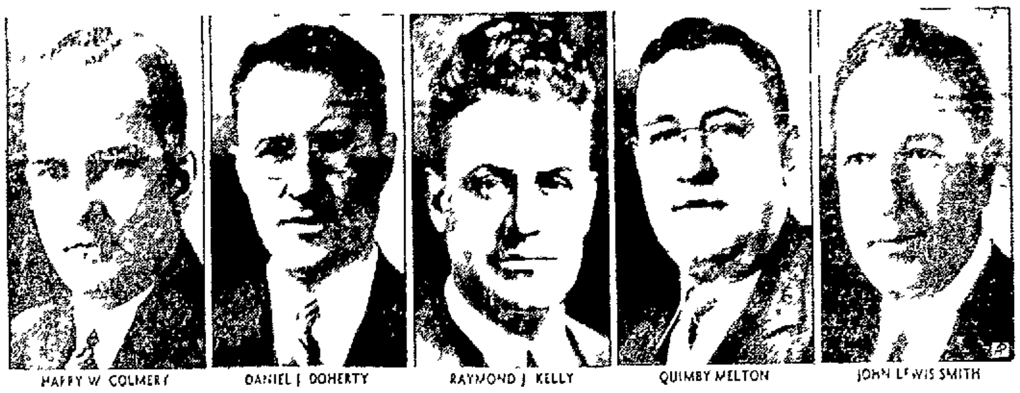
Five Candidates Enter Race To Lead Legion As Cleveland Gets Set for Annual Convention



HARRY W COLMERY DANIEL J DOHERTY RAYMOND J KELLY QUIMBY MELTON JOHN LEWIS SMITH

RAY MURPHY

[illegible] Legion [illegible] on Cleveland for its 18th annual convention September 20 25.

In alphabetical order the five who aspire to lead the Legion through what officers consider may be one of its most critical years are Harry W Colmery, Topeka, Kan; Daniel J Doherty, Woburn, Mass; Raymond J Kelly, Detroit, Mich; Quimby Melton, Griffin, Ga, and John Lewis Smith, Washington, D C.

Other candidates for the job now held by Ray Murphy may be put forward in state department conventions yet to be held or from the floor of the convention itself. All are former commanders of their state departments and all have held national offices or national committee posts. They range in age from the 41 of Kelly and the 42 years of Doherty to the 49 of Smith who also served in the Spanish American war. All are lawyers except Melton who is publisher of the Griffin Ga Daily News.

Fatiguing Job

The national commandership is physically [illegible] generally an expensive [illegible] Frank N Belgrano, Jr, national commander in 1935 [illegible] to the St Louis convention [illegible] he had traveled over [illegible] that year on Legion [illegible] and had made 300 addresses, not including 65 radio talks. The salary is something under $10,000.

At [illegible] convention in Cleveland in 1920 the Legion enunciated [illegible] policy of political nonpartisanship and no past national commander, except Gov Paul V McNutt of Indiana, has gone from the commandership to prominent political office, a record in which the Legion professes pride.

Rapid Growth

The Cleveland convention in contrast to the previous convention there 16 years ago which attracted only an estimated 20,000 persons is expected this year to bring upward of 200,000 Legionnaires to the Lake city. A pageant employing a cast of 10,000 persons will open the convention Sunday night Sept 20 and sessions will continue through Friday Sept 25 when the national commander for 1936 1937 will be elected.

It is a far cry from the small group which gathered in the Cirque de Paris on a chilly day in March 1919 to the $15,000,000 public auditorium in Cleveland where the main sessions of the convention will be held this year within a month and a half of the declaration of an Armistice 18 years ago.

Long Term Borrowing Seen Evidence of Faith in U. S.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept 8 — Announcing the treasury's $914,000,000 September borrowing would be on a 20-23 year basis, Secretary Morgenthau said yesterday this long term financing was evidence of a constantly growing confidence in the government's credit.

Morgenthau announced the treasury would sell $400,000,000 of 20 23 year 2¾ per cent bonds to provide new cash and exchange up to $514,068,000 of the long term securities for the 1½ per cent notes maturing Sept 15.

Secretary Confident

At a press conference called to discuss the financing operation Morgenthau said "we have every reason to believe it is going to be successful."

He said the treasury successively has lengthened the term of its bonds without increasing the interest.

A year ago he added the treasury offered 10 12 year bonds at a 2¾ per cent interest rate. In later offerings this rate was retained for 12 15 year and 15 17 year bonds.

"And now we are offering 20 23 year bonds at the same rate," the treasury chief said, adding:

"I know of no better way to measure the constantly growing confidence in the government's credit than the successive lengthening of the bond with the same coupon."

Very Optimistic

Asked whether other factors had not contributed to the bond market situation which made this possible Morgenthau said there may have been, but he interpreted it primarily as an indication of increasing confidence in government credit.

In view of present quotations on the government's outstanding issues he said the new bonds are reasonably priced.

With the financing operation the public debt will rise by $400,000,000 because new bonds in that amount are being issued. This will bring it to around $33,760,000,000 or about $600,000,000 under the June high when bonus issues shoved the figure upward.

NINE RESCUED FROM SUNKEN BOAT AT SEA

Schooner Arrives Just in Time To Save New Englanders on Holiday Cruise

By The Associated Press

WOODS HOLE, Mass, 8—A hair breadth rescue of nine persons whose boat sank in wind swept waters of Nantucket sound put them back safely on shore today.

Only the timely arrival of the schooner Daiquiri while seven of the party tossed about in a small dinghy and two others clung to the mast of the sinking craft averted a tragic end to a holiday yachting party.

The party left Nantucket yesterday morning. It had sailed from New Bedford last Saturday for a leisurely holiday week end cruise.

As their 50 foot yawl Rondenella struck the middle of the sound lashed by a strong southwester the seams opened and the five men aboard took turns at a small hand pump and bailed. Gradually the Rondenella sank below her water line. Capt Clarence Higgins of New Bedford headed the craft for Vineyard Haven, approximately three miles away.

At noon the water invaded the engine room. Three hours later Capt Higgins ordered the four women into the dinghy.

Then the Rondenella listed throwing two men into the dinghy. The yawl continued to sink until only the captain and another man were clinging to the top of the mast, the only part above water, when the Daiquiri appeared.

Sun Runs Motor Hailed as Source of Power Supply

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept 8 — A solar motor driving a tiny steam engine with no fuel but the sun's rays was hailed today by delegates to the third world power conference as the key to an almost unlimited treasure house of energy.

The sun machine was developed during a life time of research by Dr C G Abbott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution.

It was examined by cabinet ministers, scientists and industrialists from 52 nations who opened their sessions yesterday with a blunt warning that the end of some other power resources, particularly petroleum—already is in sight.

Although Dr Abbot's demonstration machine turned an engine of only one half horse power he declared the same principle easily could be used on a vast scale. If oil and coal supplies fail he predicted sun motors might light the world's homes and drive its factories.

The basic design of the solar boiler was relatively simple. Three curved metal mirror focused the sun's rays on glass tubes containing a black liquid of special chemical composition.

Heated to 400 degrees fahrenheit by the concentrated beams the fluid passed through a boiler which generated enough steam to run the small engine.

WILL CUT EAST'S OUTPUT OF PEARLS

By United Press

TOKYO—The sharp decline in prices of pearls natural and cultivated has caused Kokichi Mikimoto Japan's Pearl King to arrange for the closing of many of his pearl farms.

Necklaces of cultivated pearls which a few years ago were rather highly prized have been selling in Tokyo recently for as little as $7. The difference between the cultivated and natural pearl is slight. In both cases the pearl is produced as a result of an irritating substance getting inside the oyster. In the cultivated pearl the irritant is applied by human agency and the oyster does the rest.

Control of production is necessary Mikimoto believes and he plans to reduce the output to a third of its present rating. Just as in the case of the silk industry the farmers began to grow pearls along the seashore. There are now 230 pearl culturists in Japan Mikimoto says. He intends to buy these small pearl farms.

Thereafter he will become a salesman rather than a producer. The Mikimoto interests gather and sell natural pearls also but in this line there is severe competition in other countries.

Lenz and Foos Ceremony Read At Church Here

MISS ETHEL LENZ became the bride of Mr [illegible] in a ceremony read at [illegible] o'clock [illegible] [illegible] Lutheran church with the pastor Rev J. W. [illegible] officiating. The couple repeated the single ring service in the presence of the immediate families. They were attended by Mr and Mrs William Emery of Prospect brother-in-law and sister of the bride and Mr and Mrs George Rouse of Marion brother-in-law and sister of the bridegroom.

The bride wore an ensemble fashioned of woods green crepe and her accessories were in brown. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

During the ceremony Mrs William Axelman Jr presiding at the organ played "Oh Perfect Love" and "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life" and during the prayer she played "Jesus Be Our Guide".

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents Mr and Mrs John Lenz of 22[illegible] West Columbia street with covers for the bridal party and immediate families. Later Mr and Mrs Foos left on a wedding trip to Washington and other points in the east. For traveling the bride wore a suit in a navy blue shade with blue accessories. Upon their return they will be at home at 456 Elmwood drive.

Mrs Foos was graduated from Harding High school and is employed in the office of the Montgomery Ward & Co. Mr Foos is the son of Mr and Mrs Harley Foos of Caledonia and is employed with the Farmers Implement & Supply Co here.

THRIFT SYSTEMS PASS 1929 MARK

By United Press

WASHINGTON — The depression had no marked effect upon the participation of employes in thrift plans in business concerns according to a survey recently completed by the national industrial conference board.

The results of that survey presented in a report entitled "Savings Plans and Credit Unions in Industry" indicate that a slightly higher proportion of employes are contributing regularly under thrift plans than in 1927 when a previous survey was made by the board. In 1927 [illegible]9.6 per cent of participating employes set aside from $1 to $1.99 each week and 30.3 per cent saved from $2 to $2.99. In 1936 these proportions were [illegible]9.7 per cent and 30.5 per cent respectively.

The depression did however result in the discontinuance of certain types of thrift plans. Savings plans operated by companies in cooperation with banking institutions were affected by bank failures and by the unwillingness of banks to continue carrying unprofitable small accounts.

WEDDINGS

Miss Lillie Stinehelfer became the bride of Leo Eshman in a ceremony read at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Presbyterian manse on East Church street. The single ring service was read by Rev Howard L. Olewiler pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

The bride was attended by her cousin Miss Arlene Morton as bridesmaid and Paul Ryan was Mr Eshman's best man. The bride wore a gown of black crepe with a white embroidered lace panel down the entire front a gift of a close friend of her family. Her accessories were in white and her flowers were white pompons and pink roses. Her attendant was in olive green with matching accessories and wore tea roses with yellow pompons.

Following the ceremony Mr and Mrs Eshman entertained their attendants at dinner in their newly furnished apartment at 321 South Prospect street and later in the evening they entertained a group of friends. Sunday the bride and bridegroom left for Cleveland to attend the Great Lakes exposition returning Monday. They were host and hostess to a party of friends last evening at their home.

The bride is the daughter of Mr and Mrs Roy Stinehelfer of 847 North Main street. She was graduated from Harding High school with the class of 1932 and is employed with the Frank Bros Co.

Mr Eshman is the son of Mr and Mrs Ward Eshman of 407 Monroe street. He attended St Mary Parochial school and is employed with the Marion Steel Body company.

Miss Iva May Venia of Toledo became the bride of Donald H. Russ of that city formerly of Marion at a nuptial high mass solemnized Thursday morning in St Thomas Aquinas church in Toledo. Monsignor Francis J. Macelwane officiated at the ceremony.

Attending the wedding from Marion were Mrs H. M. Hart and daughter Miss Helena Hart of 117 East Center street. Miss Venia has visited at the home of Mrs Hart a number of times. Mr Russ is a state highway patrolman and is stationed at Findlay. He was one of the first patrolmen assigned to headquarters in Marion.

Mr and Mrs Russ will make their home in Toledo upon their return from a motor trip through the east. The bride is the daughter of Mr and Mrs H. R. Venia of Toledo.

Mrs. Thurn Offers Ideas for Week-End Guests

[illegible] Marion [illegible] continue [illegible] types of recipes [illegible] the ones recently [illegible] luncheons buffets and serve autumn [illegible] something new in salad [illegible] while another [illegible] French d[illegible] good green salad.

[illegible] will have week-end [illegible] your meals so that [illegible] enjoy the guests as well [illegible] few days with the [illegible] they go back to [illegible] ham make cookies [illegible] for these foods are [illegible] able and will keep [illegible] or will be a [illegible] for a gelatine dessert [illegible] Mayonnaise white [illegible] ate syrup and French [illegible] can be placed in sealed [illegible] use.

[illegible] on canned good that [illegible] you to serve a quick [illegible] in all likelihood friends [illegible] not expected will be [illegible] Soups fish sandwich spreads [illegible] gingerale pickles and at least two vegetables should find a place on the shelf. Salted and sweet crackers will not come in amiss.

In my own home I try to work out a routine and menus that will allow me to have just as good a time as the guests and other members of the family.

And don't forget that everyone likes pies and tarts. If you are careful in your choice of shortening the pastry shells may be made the day before and baked. When cold place in an airtight container. When you are ready to put the filling into the pie heat through to freshen. Pastry made in the correct way will be just as flaky and tasty as though made the day it is served. And in speaking of pies and pastry here is a recipe that I know will prove a joy to you, also other menus and recipes that will be useful.

Good Pastry-Standard Recipe

Two and one-half cups sifted flour, one teaspoon salt, three-fourths cup shortening, approximately five tablespoons cold water. More or less water may be needed according to the flour. Use only sufficient to hold the flour together.

Sift flour and salt together. Add one half of the shortening to the flour. Cut in with pastry blender or two knives until mixture looks like meal. Add remaining shortening and continue cutting until particles are size of a navy bean. Sprinkle water, one tablespoon at a time over mixture. With a fork work lightly together until all particules are moistened and in small lumps. Add just enough water to moisten. Press dampened particles together into a ball. Do not handle dough any more than necessary. This recipe will make a two crust pie.

Paradise Tarts

Six apples, three fourths cup sugar, two cups water, one fourth cup red cinnamon candies, one *tablespoon lemon juice, four table*spoons orange juice, one cup heavy cream whipped.

Wash, pare and core apples. Combine sugar, water and cinnamon candies in saucepan. Add ap*ples and simmer until tender turn*ing often and being careful to keep them whole. Remove apples and add fruit juices. Boil to a thick syrup. Cut apples in half crosswise and place in baked tart shells cut side down. Pour one tablespoon syrup over each apple. Garnish with whipped cream. Makes twelve tarts. Apples may be prepared in advance and put into shells just before serving.

Good French Dressing

One-half cup vegetable oil, two tablespoons tarragon vinegar or lemon juice, one half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon paprika.

Mix the ingredients in a bowl and blend well. If you wish a thick dressing shake the salad dressing with a cube of ice until thoroughly chilled. Remove ice cube. If the flavor of garlic is liked place a cut clove of garlic in the jar with the dressing, shake well and remove garlic at once otherwise the flavor will be too strong.

Grapefruit Waldorf Salad

Two cups peeled grapefruit sections, one cup celery cut in one inch strips, one cup diced red apples leaving red peeling on, one half cup nut meats, Roquefort cheese dressing.

Mix gently the grapefruit sections, celery, apples and nut meats. Pile in a nest of watercress or lettuce. Serve with the Roquefort cheese dressing.

SALADS ARE RECOMMENDED FOR HEALTH

The sunshine vitamins and nature's minerals are all perfectly blended in a salad bowl. Vegetable oil combined with nature's acid, the lemon, makes the best of salad dressings.

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, Sept 9

A DAY OF peculiar or perplexing conditions is the augury based on the planetary configurations. There may be baffling or mysterious situations to deal with, these involving secret, subtle or even sinister phase, accompanied by treachery, fraud or undercover attacks. A journey may be necessary and the private life seems concerned. This may relate to social, artistic or affectional affiliations and call for very sagacious and cautious movements. Romance and emotional stirrings seem to add to such mysterious complications.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves beset by a year of sudden, peculiar or irregular situations with many secret, dubious and perplexing matters to unravel. It would be well to be alert to all lures of chicanery, subtlety and treachery. A change or journey may be necessary. The social, artistic, domestic and affectional associations are involved.

A child born on this day may have leanings toward the novel, altruistic, unique and irregular and may be unorthodox, subtle and probably mysterious in its reactions.

Notable nativity: Leon Tolstoy, philosopher.

Curdling of Boiled Custard

Boiled custard curdles because the egg is heated too quickly in the hot milk. Mix well together the eggs and sugar and pour the hot milk over the egg mixture. Return to double boiler and there will be no separating of the eggs and milk.

Horseradish with Beets

A teaspoon of fresh grated horseradish added to the butter for boiled beets gives a delicious and distinctive flavor.

To Really Tighten Loose False Teeth

The following advice is given by Dentists— When patients complain that no matter what sticky powder they use they cannot eat a meal through or otherwise wear their false teeth in comfort recommend to them the use of SUXION WONDER PASTE and their troubles will immediately cease along with their complaints. Sufferers would do well to take advantage of this excellent advice. WHEN FALSE TEETH LOSE SUCTION USE SUXION. At good drug stores.—Adv.

Married Comrades

Katie Amuses Women In Her Detecatuff Costume

I LOOKED at Lillian with a question in my eyes when, upon finishing Mary's letter with its fantastic reference to gazing through a telescope at the Veritzen yacht, she had commented: "After all, old Phil has to put in somewhere."

Then she paused and looked at me attentively.

"Suppose we come clean," she said. "Have you any idea floating around in your noodle as to the real dope behind that performance of Phil's? No. You'll have to postpone your answer, if you have one. Here's Katie."

My faithful helper's knock had sounded softly on the door and I rose swiftly and admitted her. Every line of her was vibrant with excitement and her eyes deserved the time-worn adjective "starry."

Lillian smiled over Katie's shoulder at me, realizing as I did that this chance to go with us upon the balcony, unseen ourselves, to watch the secret arrival of my father's twin brother was one of the high spots in the life of my melodrama-loving household helper.

Mourning Costume

There was more than her excitement to arouse our amusement. From head to foot Katie was swathed in the deep mourning costume she had donned when on her "detecatuff work" in trailing Mary's movements when we were worried over the odd activities of Dicky's lovely young niece.

As she saw us staring at her she took one end of it and waved it like a banner.

"Look it," she said in a stage whisper which would have done credit to any cinema conspiracy. "Nobody see me no matter how close dey coom."

"Good idea, Katie," Lillian said hurriedly, "but if Mr. Underwood or Mr. Graham should come up here now and see you like that they—"

"Oh de devil," Katie's whisper was more like a squeak. "Me I know vot dey do. Dey lock us all oop in room und ve nefer nefer get chance to see tings."

"Right you are," Lillian assented.

A Good Idea

"Your idea is all right, we're going to wear dark clothes, but you don't need to wear a black dress like that. Here, give me those gloves and that veil.

"Now," she said imperatively, "cut over to your room, put on a dark house dress and bring a dark lightweight coat with you. I'll give you a minute and a half to get back here. Can you do it?"

"Vatch me. Shoost vatch me."

Katie's husky whisper was fervent and as the door closed behind her Lillian thrust gloves and veil beneath a pillow.

"We can snatch them from there in a split second," she said. "And the darn fool's idea of covering face and hands is a good one. I intended to mention it—and don't you dare hint that I'm stealing Katie's thunder!"

Hear Men Arriving

I chuckled at the thought of Lillian, secret service veteran, needing a suggestion from anybody. She grinned amiably at me as she gestured toward my bureau.

"We all slip up," she said. "I hadn't thought of gloves—figured we could hide our hands in our skirts. Rummage out two pair of old gloves, will you, while I look in your closet for dark scarves? I know there are plenty of those."

Katie's knock punctuated her sentence, and on her way to the closet she opened the door and admitted Katie.

"That's better," she said, running an approving eye over Katie's dark print dress. "Give me that coat and go over there and sit down." She finished in a fierce whisper and I knew she had caught with me the sound of masculine footsteps coming to our door.

Dick and Harry Are Nervous As They Await Midnight

OUR EARS had not deceived us. There were masculine footsteps approaching our door—those that Lillian had expected, her husband's and mine. She had locked the door behind Katie and thus was able to throw the coat into a closet and seat herself by the time Dicky's knock sounded cautiously upon the door. It was his own special signal to me, so without answering, I hurried to the door and opened it.

Dicky came into the room hastily with Harry Underwood a step behind him. The faces of both men were now decidedly grave, and at something in my husband's eyes I felt the icy finger of fear.

I said no word however. It was no time for inquiry, even, or especially, not a frightened one.

Dicky spoke first, and I wondered vaguely at that, for his big friend is usually the spokesman. But Harry Underwood was looking at his wife with the oddest of expressions on his face. It was almost, I told myself, as if he feared he might not see her again. It was an expression not reflected in Dicky's eyes, although my husband's whole demeanor was enough to shatter my composure completely.

Windows Are Locked

"Have you looked in the windows up here?" Dicky asked, and Katie answered promptly:

"Sure ting. Me I look at efery window and dot door to lectle porch not fifteen meenits ago."

I knew she was speaking the truth, for I had seen her making the rounds, but I trembled as she threw in the balcony door for good measure. Suppose her mention of it should arouse their suspicions!

But they evidently saw nothing suspicious in her volubility, for Dicky only said: "Good girl, Katie," adding to me:

"It's a good thing you have her in here. We'll know you're all in one place. Lock yourselves in until we give you the word. Have you a key to mother's room, Madge?"

"Yes," I returned, "for in my desk there is a key ring holding keys to every door in the house."

"I wish you'd skip over as soon as we go and lock her door. I'd tackle it but I'd be sure to waken her."

"I think I can manage it," I said, "if she hasn't forgotten our injunction and locked it herself from the inside."

Lillian Is Fearful

I smiled ruefully as I spoke, for Mother Graham, subject to heart attacks, often forgets our admonition to leave her door unlocked so help can get to her quickly should she touch the bell that is always near her pillow.

"If she has we can only pray she won't awaken," he said resignedly. "But if you hear shooting you'd better cut over to her room and stay with her."

Lillian, who had been looking fixedly at her big husband, cut into the conversation, addressing a measured question directly to him.

"Why should you expect shooting?" she said. "I thought the place was so well guarded."

"It is," Harry Underwood answered, "but some of these fellows in this game could wriggle through the eye of a needle."

His voice was somber, and I, watching Lillian intently, saw her flinch ever so slightly, as if he had struck her. But she said no word, only waved a forced, cheery farewell as the men turned and strode out of the room.

But the second they were gone she broke into rapid, imperative speech.

"Wait, Madge," she said, as I turned from my desk, keys in hand to fulfill Dicky's injunction to lock his mother's door. "Before you come back—if they hear two of us in the hall they'll be suspicious—cut into my room and get you know what—from that holy of holies of mine."

CLOTHES PIN BAG

A bag made of a heavy material and sewed to a clothes hanger makes a clothes pin bag that saves much stooping. The pins are also within easy reach.

Placing Cakes in Oven

Cakes should be placed on the racks of the oven so there is a space on all sides for the heat to circulate. It is far more important to have this space than to be concerned whether the cakes are placed near the bottom or top of an insulated stove. Placing cakes in the correct manner will give an even cake.

Economizing on Soap

It is well to measure the amount of soap necessary to give a good thick suds for the ordinary washing. By measuring each time a great deal of soap can be saved yet the clothes will be just as clean.

Cocoa for Chocolate

To substitute cocoa for chocolate use one half cup cocoa to three ounces of chocolate and reduce flour by four tablespoons.

Farm laborers in Hawaii are enthusiastic patrons of airplanes for short joyrides.

Instructions on Canning Fruits and Vegetables

At this time of the year there is an abundance of fruits and vegetables in the gardens and on the market. An overabundance means that prices are low. Stock up on these items and give the family a break at the same time.

Essential Instructions

Jars for oven canning should be washed in warm water, but it is not necessary to sterilize them. Boiling them is even better. Caps and rubbers should also be sterilized. Place all in hot water until ready for use. Examine jars and tops to be sure they are not cracked, dented or chipped.

Fruits and vegetables should be fresh, solid and without bruises. Fruits of the same size give a more uniform pack. Fruits and vegetables should be washed and prepared the same as for immediate serving.

Cold Pack Method

Materials for this method are placed in the jar cold and heated or processed in the oven. Some foods that need peeling are covered with hot water, that water drained off, then rinsed in cold water for handling. Once a fruit has been heated the fruit packs easier.

The correct temperature for processing is 275 degrees F. The oven should be preheated. Place the jars two inches apart in a shallow pan without water and as near the center of the oven as possible. Jars are not to be sealed tight but lids should be screwed down after half way. The time for processing is most important and should be followed to the minute.

Hot Pack Method

The hot pack method is the most satisfactory one to use for vegetables without acid. By this method the fruit or vegetable is cooked for a given period in boiling water or syrup. The time should be counted after the actual boiling takes place. Corn, peas, beans and greens are best processed by this method. Vegetables are placed in clean hot jars and to each quart is added one teaspoon of salt. Jars are filled with boiling water to one half inch of the top. No water is added to tomatoes. Jars are closed with lids but not sealed. After given time jars are removed, sealed tight and tops screwed on firmly. Fruits are packed in syrup to one-half inch of the top and a knife is used to allow air bubbles to escape.

Time Table for Most Common Items

Corn: boil on cob five minutes. Cut from cob and pack loosely. Process three hours at 275 degrees F.

Spinach: steam in covered vessel 15 minutes. Pack loosely in jar. Process three hours at 275 degrees F.

Tomatoes: scald and peel. Pack whole, process 45 minutes at 275 degrees F.

Peas: shell carefully as washing will be unnecessary. Boil five minutes and pack loosely. Process three hours at 275 degrees F. Beans are processed the same way except washed, string and boil five minutes.

Peaches: scald with hot water. Peel. Pack and cover with boiling syrup. Process 30 minutes at 275 degrees F.

Cherries: wash, stem and pit. Pack and cover with boiling syrup. Process at 275 degrees F for 30 minutes.

STOCKS CLIMB ON WIDE FRONT

Steels Lead Way but All Issues Take Part in Brisk Price Rally.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—With vigor renewed by the Labor day rest, stock market leaders forged ahead today for gains of fractions to 3 or more points.

Steels were in the forefront of the advance, but virtually all departments participated in the forward thrust. A number of new highs for the past five years or so were recorded.

Buying was stimulated principally by reports that fall business expansion is getting under way at a brisk clip.

Prominent in the upward move were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible, Sharon Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, General Motors, Chrysler, Packard, Sears Roebuck, Spiegel-May-Stern, du Pont, Westinghouse, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Western Union, Standard Gas, International Nickel, Anaconda, Kennecott, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Pure Oil, Santa Fe, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Paramount, Loew's, Collins & Aikman and Bucyrus-Erie.

U. S. government securities eased but corporation bonds pointed higher. Commodities were mixed. Foreign currencies were irregular. Sterling was strong while the French franc was backward.

Interesting to steel shareholders was the weekly survey of the magazine "Steel" which predicted that the recent boost of fourth quarter prices on some semi-finished products would have the effect of driving in large tonnage before Oct. 1.

At the beginning of foreign exchange transactions the French franc was 00 1-26 of a cent firmer at 6.58 7-16 cents, and sterling was up 1 cent at $5.04⅝.

WHEAT PRICES FIRM DESPITE BIG RECEIPTS

3,901 Cars Reach Winnipeg in Three Days; Liverpool Quotations Higher.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 8—Despite big receipts at Winnipeg, 3,901 cars for three days, wheat prices showed comparative firmness early today. Liverpool wheat quotations were a bit higher than expected, and cables reported stormy weather abroad.

Opening ⅛ off to ⅛ up, September 1.11⅝@⅝, December 1.10⅝@⅞, wheat after ward eased somewhat. Corn started at ⅝ decline to 1 cent advance, September 1.12⅝@15, December 95⅝@¾, and then held near to these limits.

Wool Market

BOSTON, Sept. 8—The Boston wool market opened, following the holiday, with a somewhat broader inquiry for woolen wools and a rather quiet demand for the worsted type of greasy domestic wools.

Mill buyers were inclined to await further developments in foreign wool markets and the domestic goods market. Quotations were steady to very firm on greasy domestic wools. Cables from Australia to private concerns in Boston reported a fair demand at steady prices compared with the closing prices of last week.

MRS. C. R. M'MURRAY DIES IN SAN ANTONIO

Widow of Sulky Company Official Victim of Tropical Fever; Burial To Be Here.

Mrs. Lulu Hensel McMurray, widow of the late Charles R. McMurray and a resident of Marion for years, died Friday night in San Antonio, Tex., where she had made her home for the last year and a half.

Mrs. McMurray was taken ill three months ago of an illness described to the family as a tropical fever.

Complete arrangements for bringing the body to Marion for the funeral and burial have not been received, but it is understood that the funeral party will arrive in Marion Wednesday night. The body will be taken to the Schaffner-Queen funeral home on East Center street.

A son, George R. McMurray of Marion, who was vacationing in New York City when he received word of his mother's critical illness, arrived in San Antonio late Saturday night or Sunday morning. The son, a daughter, Mrs. Richard Hildebrant of Wilmington, O., Mrs. McMurray's mother, Mrs. Louise G. Hensel of San Antonio, a brother, Albert Hensel of Marion, Ind., and a sister in Texas, survive.

Mrs. McMurray left Marion to make her home with her mother in San Antonio the winter following her husband's death on Sept. 18, 1934. Mr. McMurray, son of the founder of the McMurray Sulky Co. of Marion and widely known in harness racing circles, died suddenly. He was one of the organizers of the Marion Photoplay Co.

Mrs. McMurray was born in Marion county, the daughter of Charles and Louise Gray Hensel. Her marriage took place on May 25, 1893, in Delaware.

She was a member of the Epworth M. E. church.

3 BUSINESS PLACES HERE BURGLARIZED

Small Amount of Loot Obtained in Sunday Night Robbery Activities.

Burglars who broke into three Marion business places Sunday night escaped with small amounts of cash and merchandise, police reported today. The places broken into were Reed's book store at 169 East Center street, Harruff's tire store at 194 South Main street and the Marion Iron & Metal Co. at Center and Leader streets.

The Reed store burglary took place after the intruders had gone through the K. of P. hall to the basement of the building and then up a stairway leading into the store. Four dollars in change, stamped envelopes worth $1 and about $11 worth of fountain pens were taken.

Entrance to the Harruff tire store was gained through the rear door, after the glass had been broken out and the door-bar released. Fifty pennies from the cash register were taken.

The office of the Marion Iron & Metal company was entered after the door had been forced. Company officials are making a check to ascertain the loss, they reported. The keys to a storage building had been taken from a desk in the office, although as yet no theft from the building has been discovered, company officials said.

13 1-2 POUND BABY BORN HERE TODAY

A son, Robert Elmo, weighing 13½ pounds, was born this morning to Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Saunders of 191 Fies avenue.

The child is the eighth born to Mr. and Mrs. Saunders, the oldest of which is 17. They now have four boys and four girls which includes a pair of twins. The parents are 36 years old.

Super-weight babies seems to be a characteristic of the Saunders family as other children weighed from 8 and 9 to 11 pounds at birth, the attending nurse stated today.

TWO FINED FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

Two fines of $10 each were meted out by Municipal Judge William R. Martin this morning to a man and a youth charged with reckless driving. They also were assessed the costs. Those fined were Charles Coffman, 32, of 1040 Cheney avenue, and Roger Morgan, 18, of 220 South Greenwood street, both of whom pleaded guilty.

Coffman was arrested by police early Sunday morning and was accused of driving recklessly on Davids street, while Morgan was arrested shortly after Saturday midnight on North Main street by Karl E. Bushong, state highway patrolman stationed here. Bushong said Morgan was speeding and driving recklessly.

COMMUNITY MEET HELD AT CLARIDON

Fellowship clubs from Kirkpatrick, Marion, Likens Chapel, Salem and Cardington joined members of Claridon Club No. 1 for a community meeting Sunday night at the Claridon M. E. church.

Miss Dorothy Peters from Marion Club No. 1 gave a talk and Miss Virginia Vinden, also of the same club, gave a special musical number. Mr. and Mrs. John Kerr of Marion contributed a vocal duet. Miss Pearl Tuttle of Cardington, a member of Salem rural club, conducted the Bible study.
